ARMIES ON WEST FRONT REST FOR SPRING FRAY

Four Squadrons of British Cavalry and Supplies Strand In Tigris

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
LONDON, April 29.—Despatches from Berlin last night said that the Overyas News Agency has received information from its Athens correspondent that the Greek government has refused the request of the Entente Allies for permission to transport Serbian troops on the railroads from Corfu and Larissa to Salonika. No verification of this despatch has been received in London.

On the western line, according to reports from Paris and Berlin, last night, the warring armies appear to have been resting, preparatory to fresh spring fighting. Only isolated aerial fights and the usual artillery bombardments of various sectors of the long French line, are announced.

Russian Warships Raided
Hellas reports that three of her aeroplanes have attacked a Russian battleship in the Gulf of Riga. The vessel is said to have been the Slava, and the Germans declare that thirty-one bombs were dropped upon her and that she was observed to have burst into flame. The aeroplane returned safe, added the statement.

Paris announces that another contingent of Russian troops have arrived at Marseilles, where they were given a warm welcome by the French military and civil authorities.

Four squadrons of British cavalry, scouting in the sand dunes east of the Suez Canal, near the Turkish post of Qatia, have been wiped out of existence by the Ottoman force stationed there, according to despatches from Constantinople.

More British Ill-luck
More British ill-luck is claimed by the Turks, who declared that a British relief boat with supplies for General Townend, and his beleaguered forces at Kut-el-Amara, has run on a mud bank in the Tigris, four miles east of the garrison.

Constantinople also claims that a Turkish aviator has successfully dropped bombs on an allied warship lying at the dock in Port Said.

GERMAN NAVAL CRAFT ACTIVE IN NORTH SEA

Destroy Large British Guard
Vessel Off Dagger Bank

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
BERLIN, April 28.—German naval forces have destroyed a large British guard vessel on the Dagger Bank, and a fishing vessel has been captured near there.

The German admiralty reports that on April 24 a large British squadron composed of monitors, destroyers and large and small vessels of other types appeared off the Flanders coast and apparently picked up mines there. The steamers placed buoys in the sea to indicate shelling positions.

Three German torpedo boats of the Flanders squadron advanced several times against the British raiders and forced them back, impeding the continuation of their working. In spite of violent counterfiring the German boats remained unharmful, the British squadron leaving the Flanders coast.

VIOLATION OF NEUTRALITY OF SWISS ROUSES WRATH

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
BERNE, April 28.—For the thirtieth time German airmen have flown in force over Swiss territory, provoking indignation. The semi-official newspaper Botsch says that the time has come to demand something more than expressions of regret and excuses by Germany.

SWISS FIRE ON FRENCH PLANE

BERLIN, April 28.—Two French aeroplanes flew over Switzerland, and were fired upon by Swiss soldiers, according to the Overseas News Agency.

WOLGAST WOLLOPS FLYNN

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
DENVER, April 29.—Al Wolgast, former lightweight champion, showed signs of being able to "come back" last night when he took the decision from Joe Flynn in their match here. Wolgast made a good showing throughout the bout, leading Flynn in every one of the fifteen rounds, and putting him down for nine in the ninth.

GENERAL OBREGON APPEARS IN JUAREZ

American Chief of Staff and General Funston Pay Him
'Courtesy' Visit

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
WASHINGTON, April 29.—With Generals Scott and Funston in El Paso, and General Obregon in Juarez, the stage is set for the international conference that probably will decide the policy of the United States toward the Mexican problem, which will open this morning.

General Scott and General Funston yesterday afternoon made a formal courtesy call upon General Obregon at his quarters in Juarez, and were also received by General Gavira, the Carranza commandant of the Garrison in that border town.

The general feeling among army officers stationed at El Paso, say despatches from that city, is that the American-Mexican conference will result in a tentative proposal from the United States that American troops be allowed to occupy part of Chihuahua, pending the success of the Carranzistas attempts to capture Villa and break up the bandits in Northern Mexico.

At Columbus, New Mexico, the largest force of American cavalrymen gathered in one body since the departure of the expedition under General Pershing, is encamped directly on the border, preparatory to crossing today. It is understood that this command will be under the orders of General Funston, and probably will be used to strengthen the lines of communication. It is possible, however, that the force will be used to reinforce the main expeditionary body, and is being moved now in anticipation of any stipulation that may result from the conference against the sending of more troops into Mexico.

In a statement issued at Juarez yesterday General Obregon repeated his former assertions that Carranza will demand the withdrawal of American troops from Mexico, and his belief that the Carranzistas can catch Villa, who is reported to be suffering from a bad wound.

WAR'S TOLL OF SHIPS OF ALLIES IS HEAVY

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
WASHINGTON, April 29.—According to a British estimate given to the United States department of commerce the war's toll of vessels of the Allies is 538, and 198 neutral ships have been destroyed. This is exclusive of 246 trawlers.

Of these losses the British ships total 410, French, fifty-three, Russian, thirty-five, Italian, twenty-seven, Belgian, ten, Japanese, three, Norway, with a total of eighty-one ships destroyed, heads the list of neutrals, with Sweden second with forty ships sunk, Holland next with twenty-four, and the United States last with seven.

The figures give the British and French losses a four per cent of the total number of vessels flying those flags in service.

ARMY BILL BLOCKS HOUSE AND SENATE

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
WASHINGTON, April 28.—The house and senate conference on the army reorganization bill are hard at work today in an attempt to agree on a measure which will be satisfactory to both houses, but so far nothing has developed to harmonize the difference between the Hay bill and the substitute, passed by the senate.

JAPANESE DEPRECATE TALK ABOUT IMMIGRATION BILL

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
TOKIO, April 28.—Despatches protest against the prominence in the papers of the immigration bill discussions in Washington and the apparent attempt to make it appear that there is a grave controversy between the United States and Japan. It is emphasized that there is no anti-American sentiment in the matter and that Japan has confidence the legislators of the United States will not adopt any law that is unjust or offensive.

GOING IT TOO HARD

People live so fast nowadays that they tear down their tissues faster than nature can build up. It fills the blood with waste matters and use poisons. The kidneys struggle for awhile to filter the blood, but finally weaken and "go on a strike."

When your back begins to ache, you feel blue, nervous and tired, and notice kidney and bladder irregularities. Rest and help the kidneys. If you would avoid droopy, gravel or fatal Bright's disease.

To rest the kidneys, sleep overwork, worry, late hours, overeating, and strong drinks. Rest more, sleep more and get some outdoor exercise. Walking is good.

To help the kidneys, use Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. They act quickly. They are harmless and do lasting good. Thousands vouch for them.

BRITISH WARSHIP IS SUNK BY MINE

One Hundred and More Officers and Sailors Go Down With Battleship

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
LONDON, April 28.—The battleship Russell has been sunk in the Mediterranean and to date 124 of her officers and crew, numbering in all 824 persons, are missing.

The vessel struck a mine in the Mediterranean while on patrol duty and filled and sank rapidly. Admiral Fremantle, her commander, twenty-four officers and 676 of the crew have been saved. (The battleship Russell belonged to the Duncan class and was commissioned in 1901. She had a displacement of 34,000 tons, and carried four 12-inch, twelve 6-inch, twelve 3-inch, six 3-inch and two Maxim guns. She had 18-inch torpedo tubes, four of which were submerged.)

It is also announced that a German submarine has been sunk by the British off the east coast of England, and the eighteen of the submarine's crew have been captured.

The British steamer Industry has been sunk by a German submarine, the crew being left in open boats 120 miles out from land. The liner Finland rescued them.

The Industry was of 4044 tonnage and owned by the Industry Steamship Company, with home port Liverpool, England. The Finland mentioned probably is the big 12,760-ton vessel belonging to the International Mercantile Marine Company.

SUBMARINE CRISIS GROWS LESS ACUTE

Indications From Germany Are That Kaiser Is Disposed To Avert Rupture

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
WASHINGTON, April 29.—Official Washington is becoming more and more optimistic over the outcome of the present crisis between this country and Germany concerning the submarine policy of the latter. The fact that Ambassador Gerard is known to have been in conference with the Kaiser himself is taken as an excellent augury for the future, and the general opinion at the state department appears to be that nothing but good can come out of the conference.

The situation was discussed briefly at a cabinet meeting yesterday afternoon. Secretary of State Lansing later declared that the government's information from Berlin is but scanty, and that a cable from Ambassador Gerard had merely announced the forthcoming conference with the Emperor, and had said that the American representative did not know the purpose of the talk to which he was invited by the Kaiser.

In German official circles here the sentiment was evidently much more optimistic last night. Earlier in the day it was announced that despatches from Berlin to the German ambassador conveyed the information that the Berlin government will attempt to meet the demands made by the United States upon the subject of submarine warfare. It was stated, however, that nothing definite has been received, and that the despatches merely indicated a willingness on the part of Berlin to meet Washington more than half way.

GERMAN WAR PLOTTERS INDICTED IN NEW YORK

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
NEW YORK, April 28.—Eight Germans who were recently arrested for conspiring to plant bombs in ships with munitions of war destined for Europe, were today indicted by the federal grand jury, and Dr. Walter Scheele, president of the New Jersey Agricultural Chemical Company, was also indicted. He is alleged to be one of the leaders in these plots. No more arrests were made today.

BIG ISLAND SETS PROGRESSIVE PACE TO GET TOURISTS

Personally Conducted Tours To
Volcano Only Incident of Comprehensive Campaign

OTHER ISLES INCLUDED IN GREAT GENERAL PLAN

Idea Behind Propaganda Is To Get Visitors In Touch With Outside Attractions

"The Big Island has already set a hot pace in its treatment of tourists," said Hawaii's publicity man, L. W. de Vis-Norton, in an interview yesterday. And, what is more to the point, the Big Island evidently intends to keep it up, and is now inaugurating a progressive policy which will place it far in the van.

"It is only a few weeks ago," continued Mr. Norton, "since the Hawaii Publicity Commission was receiving congratulations through your editorial columns, upon its initiative in starting the idea of personally conducted tours to the Volcano of Kilauea. These were really tried as a sort of experiment, with a view to inaugurating the second step in our policy, and since they have already proved themselves a pronounced success, we are now going ahead. We mean to make the island of Hawaii more popular than ever with visitors, for, while Honolulu will always get more publicity than we shall ever be able to secure for Hawaii, yet, bit by bit, the tourist is beginning to realize that over on the Big Island we have four thousand square miles of scenery entirely at his service. The tourist will come to Honolulu anyway, and after he has revelled for a few days in the many beauties of the city, and has gone over as much of its area of 598 square miles as the condition of the roads will permit, he naturally wants to go farther afield."

"We hope he will visit the other islands before he comes over to us. He should certainly go to Kauai and see the great Waimea Canyon and the other beauty spots of that gloriously beautiful garden-land, and he ought not to neglect Maui, for I do not think any visit to the group is complete unless the Kaunaloa Islands are included in the itinerary. But when he has done all these things, then we want him to come along to Hawaii, and spend all the rest of his spare time with us, for we shall be able to look after him in a way he will never forget."

"The Publicity Commission already has the whole of the Big Island behind it, and I think there are very few indeed who do not now realize that its work for the community is earnest work indeed. We have felt that the best way to benefit the community in general is to bring the tourist to the island in ever increasing numbers; and in order to do that, we must provide for the tourist something of even more interest than our volcanoes and our tropical scenery. The modern tourist wants to be amused and wants to have his tour made interesting for him. That was the idea at the back of our personally conducted tour scheme. The trip to the Volcano has now become more than ever fascinating to the visitor, who certainly seems to appreciate a simple explanation of the many unique features of his journey. I candidly admit that my own pleasure as a guide has been immensely added to by the interest shown in the splendid old legends of the places we visit. There is little joy in telling a story which falls on deaf ears, but when one's listeners follow the example of Oliver Twist and demand more and yet more, then story telling of the ancient days becomes a real delight."

"This, then, marks the beginning of our policy for the entertainment of our visitors, and now we have a long and ambitious program ahead of us, which the public spirit of the Big Island will undoubtedly enable us to carry through. I am not going to tell you of all the steps we propose to initiate; that would be giving the show away, and Hawaii expects always to remain in the lead anyway, but I will tell you about one number two, as there is no reason why it should not become public property."

"The Publicity Commission has obtained the sanction and approval of Governor Pinkham for the setting aside of a certain area of forest lands bordering the road between the Volcano and Hilo, and only a few miles from the latter city. This land will now be properly fenced and the necessary clearing will be done. As soon as these things have been accomplished, there will be established on this land, (which will be set aside and dedicated as a public park, under certain restrictions) a real Hawaiian village of the old type, with a few modern, but inconspicuous improvements. And this is not going to be simply a sort of museum exhibit because the village is going to be inhabited by carefully selected Hawaiians, and a serious effort is going to be made to re-establish the old industries which are so fast being allowed to die out."

"It is our intention to revive the art of making tapa cloth; the weaving of the beautiful hats and mats from the bark and palm of the pandanus tree; the making and polishing of the wonderful calabashes of koa wood; the making of the real native ukulele as distinct from the imitation of the present day; in fact, we hope and intend to bring back the old conditions as much as possible. The village will be open to visitors under restrictions, and

ANTIPODES WOOL MEN PROSPERING

Sydney Man Says War Has Come To Them As Blessing In Disguise

A nephew of Alfred Austin, late poet laureate of England, is a guest at the Young Hotel, in the person of Harry Austin, a wealthy wool broker of Sydney. Mr. Austin will be in the city for a couple of weeks. He is one of the prominent men of the Commonwealth, while his father is one of the best known among Australian kinsmen.

The war has come as a blessing in disguise to the Australian wool men, for while they had expected the bottom to drop out of the market entirely, it turned the other way and the price skyrocketed, bringing fortunes to those lucky enough to get in on the buying at the right time.

The wool men, as a result of their good fortune, have been very liberal subscribers to the various war funds being raised in Australia, at one of their recent gatherings in Sydney, a few weeks ago, auctioning a bale of wool amongst themselves, over and over, until it had been sold for an aggregate of thirty thousand dollars, the greatest price on record for a single bale. This fund has gone towards the establishment of a convalescent home for wounded soldiers, which the wool buyers have agreed to maintain as long as it may be required.

MIDPACIFIC IDYL TO BECOME REAL

Chicago Woman Is Coming To Honolulu To Become Bride of Army Officer

A romance that began three years ago in Honolulu, where the winds blow softly and the skies are azure, will bloom here in May. Then Mrs. Grace M. Snow will arrive from Chicago and First Lieut. Robert G. Caldwell of the Fifteenth Infantry from the Philippines, where his regiment is stationed.

Mrs. Snow met the lieutenant in Hawaii early in 1913, while she was recuperating from the strain of divorce proceedings in Denver, where she was freed from a man twice her age. Mrs. Snow's father, H. C. Caldwell, became seriously ill and she returned to attend him. He died shortly after her arrival.

His estate provided for her and her son, who then was five years old, but she was unfortunate in investing the money. Soon she saw that she must work to live. She studied stenography and obtained a position in Chicago last year.

Time, distance and adversity only served to deepen her love for the lieutenant, who, in the meantime, had been transferred to another regiment and he went to the Philippines to join it.

His letters urged marriage at an early date, and last month she sent the cablegram, he has been waiting.

There will be efficient supervision for the comfort of all parties concerned. Thus, there will be on the Big Island, a great inducement for visitors to glimpse the real Hawaii, and they will have the opportunity of acquiring real native curios at first hand. It is our hope that by the time the Hawaiian park is ready and in full working order, the projected museum of volcanology will have been established at Kilauea, as this will complete the attractions of the section between Hilo and the Volcano.

"Now, with regard to the other sections of the island. Our program is a very extensive one and will require both time and money to carry through, but knowing the personality of the Publicity Commission as I do, and knowing the spirit of self-sacrifice which is permeating the whole island, I am quite confident that the program will be carried through in its entirety. From the Chairman, Mr. George H. Viens, right through the whole commission there is unbounded initiative and enterprise, and as I have already said the big island of Hawaii has set a pace which the others are going to find it hard to emulate. It is our intention to provide, in each section of the island, some features of special interest, in addition to the natural wonders and scenic marvels with which the whole country teems. Our plan covers special features in Puna, in Kona, in Kohala and in Hamakua, of such a nature that the tourist will not be able to afford to neglect them, and I am already quite excited at the idea of being able to help in getting these things through."

"What are the special features? No sir, I'm not going to tell you anything about them, yet. I don't believe in counting chickens before they are within a measurable distance of being hatched; neither do I wish to fill the newspapers with paragraphs built mainly of hot air. Our plans certainly have definite shape, but the wherewithal to carry all of them out has yet to be provided. When the money is in sight, I shall be ready to tell you about it, but the Hawaii Publicity Commission, beyond everything else believes in performance rather than in piecemeal promises. I will give you details at the proper time, but I can tell you that the originality and boldness of our plans will appeal to the tourist, and will go a long way towards keeping Hawaii right in the forefront as the most attractive of all the islands for the visitor."

GOVERNMENT ADMITS REVOLT HAS PASSED POINT OF MERE RIOT

Details of Battling With Sinn Fein Revolutionists Say That Latter Seized Government Buildings, From Which They Cannot Be Dislodged—Disturbances Paralyze Business

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
BELFAST, April 29.—A British gunboat yesterday afternoon shelled the Sinn Fein headquarters here, after which the troops attacked and captured it without trouble.

LONDON, April 29.—The Dublin rebels have been forced to evacuate St. Stephen's Green, by a rain of bombs showered upon them by the Lancers and other troops sent to crush the revolt, which is conceded here to have passed the stage of a riot. More than four hundred of the rebels have been captured, and the mail advices which brought the news of the last fighting say that there is as yet no means of forming any estimate of the number of killed and wounded.

Labor Agitator Leads Revolt
According to other mail advices from the Irish capital, the fighting began last Monday, when, at the head of 600 members of the Sinn Fein and other followers, James Larkin, president of the transport workers' union and leader in the street car strike of 1913, marched into St. Stephen's Green, in the heart of the city, seized the postoffice and raised the flag of a republic of Ireland.

Take Possession of Public Buildings
His men were apparently well drilled and well armed, and presented a military appearance as they paraded through the streets of the city to the Green. No sooner had the head of the column made sure of the postoffice and other important government buildings in the vicinity, than others of the command began barricading Sackville street, the principal business thoroughfare of Dublin, and seizing other strategic points in the neighborhood.

When these advices were written, last Tuesday, the rebels still held their positions despite the efforts of the police and the Lancers to dislodge them, and the loss of many of their number under the heavy fire that the soldiers and constabulary kept upon them. Authorities Unable To Suppress Rebellion
Last Tuesday it was finally admitted by the lord lieutenant that the authorities were unable to cope with the situation and that reinforcements had been asked for from the war office.

At the same time the proclamation of the lord lieutenant stated that the movement was of small dimensions, and that it was due to foreign prompting. It was announced that the sternest measures will be taken to suppress the insurrection. The proclamation went on to announce that while the movement is not being "generally supported, there can be no doubt of its serious nature, which has passed far beyond the dimensions of a mere riot."

Business of City Is At Standstill
Continuing the reports say that on that day all shops had been closed and business suspended. The street cars in the business section of the city had been stopped and all traffic was at a standstill, save in the outlying districts. Telephoning was forbidden, and trains to interior points were running irregularly.

Looting broke out early, when the hoodlums, taking advantage of the excitement, began to break into the closed shops and help themselves. A vast amount of vandalism was also reported to have taken place, windows being smashed and buildings defaced.

Rebels Lose All Public Sympathy
In a later statement the authorities announced that this and other actions of the rebels had lost them all public sympathy and that the government was confident of being able to quell the revolt in a few days.

The report winds up with the statement that it "is impossible to give any estimate of the number of killed and wounded in the fighting, but it is believed to have been proportionately large."

PRESIDENT IS ASSAILED BY IRISH-AMERICAN PRESS

NEW YORK, April 29.—The United States district attorney's office yesterday began an investigation of the vitriolic attacks upon President Wilson and his administration, which have been appearing in the Irish-American press since the outbreak of the rebellion in Dublin, in an effort to determine if they do not constitute legally punishable crimes.

BANKER BELIEVES SIR ROGER CASEMENT, INSANE

H. G. K. Webber, one of the directors of the Bank of South Africa, who was visiting his brother, and there were times when he believed that he should be confined, for his own protection. He was morose and decidedly queer. I do not believe that the man is responsible for what he has been doing. He will undoubtedly be executed for high treason, however."

Mr. Webber is grieved at the outbreak in Ireland and the bloodshed that will result "from the Irish allowing themselves to be made the catpaw of the Kaiser."

ARMY AVIATION CORPS WILL BE REORGANIZED

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
WASHINGTON, April 29.—The war department announced last night that Major Lockridge has been appointed chairman of the special committee of the general staff which has been ordered to investigate the aviation service of the American army, with a view to effecting its complete reorganization. The other members are Col. Charles Kennedy, Maj. John McPalmer and Capt. Dan Moore. General Pershing has been appointed a consulting member.

SANDS BID LOWEST FOR CULVERT WORK

Bids for a culvert in Nuuanu street were opened at the office of the county clerk yesterday and it was found that Harry S. Sands was the lowest bidder. His price for the work was $1837. Other bidders were J. L. Young Engineering Company, $2195; H. B. Reede, $2270; Lord-Young Engineering Company, $2214, and H. K. DeFries, $2304.80.

LANE HAS BEEN FOUND TO BE PRIVATE PROPERTY

A lane leading to Pauahi from the Bijou Theater, which was right of way to what was once known as "Fowler's Yard," is private property, according to a report handed in to the supervisors by the city engineer who made an investigation of the fencing in of the land by the agents of J. M. Dowsett.
